1.3 Functions of the IIC

The IIC provides an online platform allowing its users to submit licensing applications. The IIC aims to streamline the licensing processes and procedures as well as enhancing communication efficiency between users of the IIC and the IA. Currently, the major functions of IIC include:

- Individual Licence application
 - Completion of application form by individual applicant
Individual Applicant will be able to complete his/ her application through IIC.
 - Verification of individual application form by principal
Principal will be able to verify the individual application through the IIC. If there is anything needed to be updated, principal may mark the comments. The individual applicant will be able to view the comments and conduct necessary updates through the IIC.
 - Confirmation of individual applicant appointment by principal
Principal may also confirm the individual applicant appointment through the IIC.
 - Submission of application to the IA
Once the individual application has been completed and verified, it can be submitted by the individual applicant to the IA via the IIC.

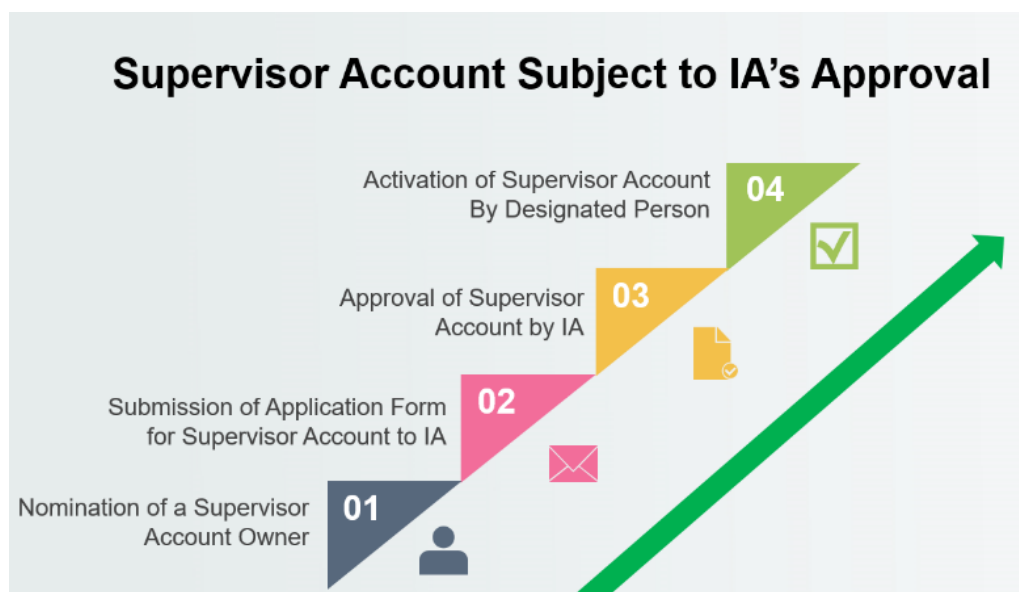

The principal must register for an IIC Supervisor Account with the IA before the individual applicant is able to submit his/ her licence applications through the IIC.

This user guide is to provide supervisors, alternative supervisor and administration account owners (on behalf of their respective authorized insurers, licensed insurance agencies and licensed insurance broker companies, collectively, “principal”) with the information on the creation of accounts in the IIC, verification of licence applications, and confirmation of appointment of the individual applicants.

This user guide will be update from time to time to reflect the latest functions as available in the IIC.
